COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

In the Court of General Session February Ferm, A. D. 1911. State of South Carolina,

County of Dillon.

To the honorable S. W. G. Shipp, presiding Judge:

The grand jury, empannelled for the present year, begs leave to submit this, their general presentment upon the termination of their labors at the present term of the Court:

1. That they have examined all bills submitted to them by the Solicitor and returned the same into the court, with their finding there-

2. That they have made no attempt to examine the books of the different county officers, deeming such examination as they could make during the limited time at their command, of no importance or avail whatsoever to the people of the county. They have therefore, appointed a committee, of which the foreman, on motion, is chairman, and consisting of sald forethea, to perform this duty and to report to the grand jury as whole, at the next, or the insuing term thereafter, of the court. This committee will have leisure opportunity not only to inquire into the manner in which the books of different county officers are kept,, but also into the correctness of the same, and if necessary they can call to their assistance an expert to aid them in the performance of their duties.

3. Notwithstanding the and demand contained in the last general presentment of the grand jury, requiring the different magutrates of the county to appear at the present term of court, and to grand jury, their dockets, only three magistrates, to with H. Mc-Rae, Esq.; W. W. Sellers, Esq., and Tracey E. Fore, Bsq., have complied with this request and demand. The grand jury must insist upon the production of their dockets by the magistrates of the county, as complaints continue to be made that some of them collect money in criminal cases and do not turn the same over to the treasurer as required by law. In order that this duty may be properly performed, and that no magistrate may have any excure hereafter, the grand jury has appointed McInnis, John J. Allen and Murray Mears, to perform this duty and to make a thorough examination of the dockets of each magistrate in the county. This committee will appoint a day and will notify each magistrate of the time and place where he will be expected to meet them and to foring with him his docket so that they may examine In order to facilitate the performance of this duty, each magistrate is required to append in which he has paid over any money collected by him, the receipt of the treasurer showing such payment. This committee will also make its report to the grand jury, as a whole, at the next term of the court, and will be incorporated in their general pre-

4. It is often the case that criminals go unwhipped of justice for the reason that the guilty party cannot be detected or ne escapes, either before or after being arrested. To prevent this as far as possible, the grand jury recommends that the county board of commissioners purchase not less than two blood hounds, to be kept and trained by the sheriff, and to be used in tracing out and trackinug criminals and any person who may have escaped.

5. The grand jury regrets that the court house commission has done nothing so far in performing the high and important duty assigned them, especially in failing to erect a jail. The present arrangement is not only extremely uncomfortable and inconvenient in holding court, but is very expensive to the county. They therefore, express the hope that said .... will proceed at once to the erection of the jail, and as soon as possible to have the court house erected. The former expecially is very important, for, according to information given to the grand jury, the transferring of prisoners and support of them while in prison in the jail of other counties is very expensive to the coun-

The grand jury heartily approves and endorses the action of the Honorable senator and member of the House of Representatives, securing the passage of an Act for the issuing of bonds to improve and construct the bighways and public roads of the county. There is no subject of greater importance or benefit to the citizens, individually or collectively, than good highways and the course which has been adopted is, in the judgment of the grand jury the very best to accomplish this purpose. The interest upon the bonds to be issued will amount to no greater burden upon the citizens than the

A SQUARE DEAL FOR DILLON COUNTY

At least one Life Insurance Company has kept faith with its South Carolina policy-holders.

When the South-Atlantic began to solicit business in South Carolina its representatives were authorized to state that every dollar of surplus from premium receipts would be invested in the communities in which the premiums were received.

The South-Atlantic Life Insurance Company has loaned in Dillon County three tin.es its total premium receipts from policy-holders in that County.

Is it not your business to help the business of a Company whose business helps your business?
